

Question:Indian Constitution and Polity

In which of the following cases, the Supreme Court held that fundamental rights are unamendable?

- 1 A. K. Gopalan's case
- 2 Keshvananda Bharti's case
- 3 M. C. Mehta's case
- 4 Golak Nath's case

Downloaded From: eLearn Pro (<https://myelearnpro.com/>)

Explanation:

Golak Nath's case (Golaknath vs the State Of Punjab) was a 1967 Indian Supreme Court case, in which the Court ruled that Parliament could not curtail any of the Fundamental Rights in the Constitution.

eLearn Pro
Learning Made Easy

 Some Hindi Fonts are not rendered properly.*

Downloaded From: eLearn Pro (<https://myelearnpro.com/>)